QA1 Acquires Speedtech Performance USA

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LAKEVILLE, MN – 1/3/2024 – Today, QA1 announced it has acquired substantially all of the assets of Speed Tech Performance USA, dba Speedtech Performance USA, a leader in high performance chassis and suspension solutions for the pro touring and resto mod markets. Speedtech Performance offers a wide range of chassis and subframes for popular muscle cars and trucks, enabling enthusiasts to achieve optimal handling and cornering on the track or street.

"We look forward to building on the innovation, products, and brand that has been created at Speedtech Performance," says Melissa Scoles, President and CEO of QA1. "We are excited to leverage their proven expertise to expand full chassis solutions to our customers."

Blake Foster and Roger Maniscalco co-founded Speedtech Performance USA in 2004, and brought the company to St. George, Utah in 2012. With this acquisition, the Speedtech Performance brand will continue operating out of its St. George, Utah facility with its existing team, ensuring continuity for employees and customers. Roger Maniscalco will remain with the team and will lead the sales and marketing efforts for the brand. "We are excited to team up with QA1, incorporating their engineering and manufacturing expertise to enhance and fine-tune our product line," he stated. "Our customers can anticipate an elevated level of industry-leading performance and customer service from us in the future."
